Questions

1. In Chapter 1 of the WOW! Women of Worth book, the author describes what she calls the real issue of whether we are just as much human at embryo stage as we are toddler to adult stage. Many disagree. Do you really believe God knew and formed us in the womb? Why do you believe this way? If possible, back up your answer with Scripture.
2. In chapter one, the author discussed how everyone gets rejected at one time or another, and then she listed many wrong responses to rejection. Name three wrong responses to rejection listed in the chapter.
3. The author also discussed right (Christ-like) responses to rejection, name at least three right responses to rejection, also listed in chapter 1.
4. From the cameo section of chapter one – The Power of Forgiveness: Do you forgive easily? If so, what helps you forgive? If not, what's your biggest hindrance to forgiving?
5. The author made this statement in the summary section, “Furthermore, it was refreshing to realize anew that the price has already been paid for our sins. It is now in the receiving. Salvation is already paid for. Healing was purchased on the same day. Even our prosperity was included in the payment. There's only one thing left to do to enforce that transaction, yes you know what it is: Open your heart and receive it all by faith.” According to biblical scripture, what price was paid for our health, healing and prosperity?
6. In chapter two, the author discusses a woman image. Play up your most celebrated feature. Remember that everyone has something uniquely identifiable to them: Former First Lady Barbara Bush's wrinkly face identifies her as a time-trusted friend and survivor. Joanie Parsley's kind face balances her husband's fiery personality. Marilyn Monroe's size 16 curves are still a standard of sexy. Elizabeth Taylor's violet eyes mesmerize photographers. Gwyneth Paltrow's swan-like neck is helping turtlenecks make a comeback. Sandra Bullock's girl next-door face has captured the nation. Ask yourself: What's the first thing I remember realizing was extraordinary about me? What about my body makes me feel unique? Name it and celebrate it with the group!

7. List your inner assets by completing the following statements, “I like _____” or “I can _____.” For example: “I like the way I wake up happy every morning,” “I can walk three miles,” “I can tell a good story or a joke.” Or I like being able to make people feel good about themselves.” Write down as many of these as possible and add more as you think of them; now read at least 3 aloud to the group.
8. In chapter three, the author discussed the significance of names, do you like your name?
9. What’s your favorite name?
10. What’s your affectionate name for your husband, one of your children, your friend?
11. Name one name of Jehovah God that you remember from the chapter? Why did you choose this name?
12. Name one specific name given to Jesus Christ that is meaningful to you and why?
13. In chapter 5 the author discussed, a woman’s ordinary but God-given role in the earth as helpers of mankind, influencers of nations and mothers to many: What do you like best about being born a woman?
14. What do you like least about being born a woman?
15. Do you have a personal mission in your life?
16. In chapter six, the author discussed God’s call and natural instinct He’s given woman to pray. Do you pray often, and why?
17. If you were experiencing a personal crisis and you needed someone to pray with you, who would you call and why?
18. Can you choose a prayer partner from your group?
19. In chapter seven the author discusses woman’s potential and how to tap into your greatest potential. Do you have a special talent? If so, are you using it?
20. Experts say most use only a fraction of our potential, gifts, talents; how much of your potential, do use?
21. Do you have plans to use more? If so, briefly state your plans.
